What is Freemasonry?

The Masonic Commitment to Character

Many years ago the famous Dr. Albert Schweitzer wrote these magnificent words.

“It is not enough merely to exist...Every man has to seek in his own way to make his own true worth.”

Those words capture the meaning of Freemasonry. As the world’s oldest and largest fraternity, our goal is to build a man’s most valuable possession ---his character.

We believe that the strength of the family, the church, the community and our country rests with men of strong conviction, firm ethical and moral values and a devotion to our democratic system of government. As Masons, we help each other intensify our devotion to these enduring values.

The Founding of Freemasonry

The origins of Masonry reach back to Medieval times when the great cathedrals of Europe were built. The stonemasons who created these awe-inspiring Gothic structures formed craft guilds to protect the secrets of their trade and to pass on their knowledge to worthy apprentices.

In 17th century England, these guilds began accepting honorary members, men of learning and position. These new members were not working stonemasons or even associated with the building trades. As “accepted Masons,” they eventually grew into a separate organization call Freemasonry, a moral and ethical society that taught the importance of education in freeing mankind from prejudice, superstition and social injustice.

Masonry Today

Masons continue to use the simple tools of the ancient stonemasons --- the square and compass, the trowel, plumb and level --- as symbols to teach their ideals. A Mason is oath-bound to build his life and character with the same care and precision that stonemasons used to construct the cathedrals and temples centuries ago.

Masonic Concern for Others

Freemasonry has an outstanding record for helping others. Along with scholarships to assist young people in furthering their education, Masons support many community-based charitable projects. The Wisconsin Masonic Home provides high-quality, dignified living for mature adults. The Masonic Medical Foundation of Wisconsin helps to improve the quality of life for over half of the state’s population, by providing matching grants which equip hospitals, fire and rescue departments with needed equipment. The Masonic Service and Assistance Fund, helps to support the Wisconsin Masonic Home and make contributions to disaster relief funds in times of need. One of the most important lessons a man learns in Masonry, is the spirit of charity. Wisconsin Masons help to advance that spirit everyday.
